Donating Goods to Charity

"I couldn't find any help at first and I'm sure there are others just like me because we're spread out all over the country now. It was so time consuming and expensive. I had to take time off work and travel here twice, because I couldn't do it all in one weekend. Thank you. You made a tough job much easier and I'm glad we could help others at the same time."

Moving Out or Moving On

Often it is overwhelming when it comes time to downsize or move.

Even when health concerns are not an issue, moving from a large residence to a smaller space can be fraught with stress.

It's hard to part with treasured possessions accumulated over a lifetime. There may be value in these items but where do you start?

Placing ads to sell items often results in a stream of phone calls and requests for showings without the desired outcome.

Why not consider donating some items to charity?

Life's Transitions

During times of transition and loss, families are often called upon to make choices about how to dispose of a loved one's belongings. This can sometimes be overwhelming.

Often family members from out of town are stretched for time and may find it difficult to know where to turn in a strange city.

Whether you are bringing items to our thrift store, or asking for a home assessment, our staff and volunteers will remain sensitive to the situation.

All interactions occur in an atmosphere of care and respect to allow the transition to occur with as much dignity and as little stress as possible.

A representative is available to come to your home to assess your needs, and ensure they are met. In many cases we can handle all items that you do not wish to keep.

Our Staff & Volunteers are sensitive to your needs

Donating Goods

The Hospice Shoppe exists to support the programs of Nanaimo Community Hospice Society.

Our thrift store accepts almost all household goods, personal items and some recyclables (some exceptions apply).

In some cases, where a donated item has significant value, we can issue a charitable receipt for tax purposes once the item is sold.

There is no charge for our service. Our staff and volunteers are ready to help with little notice. (See available services on reverse side)

100% of all funds raised stay right here in our community to ensure that individuals of all ages who are facing end of life issues in our community get the help they need.

Donating is good for the soul, good for the community, and stress free.
